The Novena of Masses for the Holy Souls concludes on Tuesday, 10th November.
Envelopes and lists for the names of your beloved dead are still available in the three churches of the parish and in the Parish Office. The names have been placed in a basket on the altar to be remembered during November, uniting our prayers for the faithful departed with Christ's sacrifice at every Mass.
When writing the names of those who have died, please don't forget to include those who have no one to remember them.

Parish Envelopes

If you use the envelope system for the various church collections, your box of envelopes for 2027 is now available from the Parish Office.
A sincere word of thanks to all who support the parish financially whether it is through the envelope system, by placing cash in the collection baskets, and by periodic or annual contributions.
Thanks also to those who have signed up for the envelope system following the recent appeal at the weekend Masses.
For your information, the offertory collection at the weekends and on church holidays goes towards the financial upkeep of the parish on a day-to-day, week-to-week basis i.e. paying the bills, just like any household.

Youth Ministry Collection

This annual diocesan collection will be taken up at all Masses next weekend, 14th/15th November. The collection supports the work of Sheila Kelleher, our diocesan youth ministry coordinator, and the many volunteers dedicated to the nurturing of the faith among our youth.
It is important for us to encourage and support our young people in every way we can so that they can become involved in their local parish.

Station Masses

Now that the Station Masses have finished for the Autumn, just to say a word of thanks to those households who generously hosted a Mass for their neighbours and friends.
Thanks for the hospitality, the welcome and also to those who provided refreshments after the Church Stations in Little Island, Knockraha and Glounthaune.
Thanks also to the many volunteers who so kindly distributed the Station Mass envelopes to the homes in the various parts of the parish.
If you wish like to host a Station Mass for your area of parish in Spring 2027, please give it some thought and contact the Parish Office if you would like to do so.

Congratulations!

Well done and warmest congratulations to the Erin's Own hurlers on their wonderful victory against our near neighbours Carrigtwohill in the final of the Senior A Hurling Championship on Sunday last.
To the players, the management team and all who were involved in so many different ways in bringing the Jim Forbes Cup to the parish, we say well done to you all.
Hopefully at some stage in the future with the co-operation of the management, we might be able to bring the cup to the three churches of the parish. So, watch this space.
We look forward once again to premier senior hurling in 2027. Rogha Éireann abú!

During the month of November, we remember all those who have died. We remember the lessons we have learnt from them and the talents we have inherited from them. We remember how we loved them and how they loved us and made us what we are today. We remember their good deeds and determine to be more like them, and finally we pray for those who have died alone with no one to remember or pray for them.
We encourage everyone to make a special effort to come to daily Mass during the Novena for the Dead and maybe even keep up the effort for the mont h of November.

Michael Kelly, Aid to the Church in Need Ireland, writes in Intercom Magazine…

Persevering in Faith amid Persecution

This Sunday's readings, as we mark the beginning of the Week of Witness dedicated to praying for Christians persecuted for their faith, speak of trials and endurance. As we reflect on the readings, we focus on Christians persecuted for their faith, trusting in God's promise of ultimate victory.

St. Paul, in his letter to the Thessalonians, speaks directly to people who may have to pay a price for staying faithful. He says that the day of the Lord will come like a thief. The world around them talks of peace and security. Believers are not to share that drowsiness. They are children of light, meant to stay awake and sober. In any age when faith becomes costly, that sobriety is not gloom. It is simply the refusal to pretend that everything is fine, or that discipleship can be kept safely out of sight.

The parable of the talents presses the same point from another side. The servant who buries what he has been given does so out of fear. He knows the master is demanding, so he decides the safest thing is to do nothing and hand the silver back untouched. Fear of loss, fear of the master's severity, fear of standing out – any of these can send a gift underground.

For Christians who live where faith is watched, restricted, or punished, the temptation is real: keep the light low, say little, risk nothing, preserve what you can.

Neither reading promises that faithfulness will be easy or rewarded at once. What they do promise is that staying awake and putting the gift to work belong to the life of faith itself.

The persecuted Church is not asked to be reckless. It is asked not to bury what it has been given simply because the night feels long and the risk feels high.

The charity Aid to the Church in Need tells us that some 413 million Christians live in countries where religious freedom is severely violated – that's 18% or about one in five Christians. Of these, approximately 220 million live in countries where they are directly exposed to persecution – that's 10% of all Christians. Let's keep them in our prayers this weekend.
