Dear Friends,

"The stone rejected by the builders became the cornerstone" - these words in this weekend's Gospel are a stark metaphor for the events that we witnessed in France last week with the outpouring of goodwill for Pope Leo and the reawakening of the French authorities to the reality of the lived experience of faith which sustains so many. Stark contrast one might say to the scenes we witnessed here in our own land where the divisions of old resurfaced. The scenes in France were a reminder that true freedom comes from a lived relationship with God, the repression of the freedom to worship will never win over.

Over this last week we have heard from some very inspiring people during our Week of Hope, each invited speaker brought us words of encouragement and hope that we are called to pass on to our young people - each evening reminded us of how words can heal, words matter. I was so encouraged by the presence of so many young adults during the week - the came not because they had to but because they wanted to, their presence made a difference and so did the presence of each individual who turned up - together we showed that hope can be found in the community - together we bring comfort and healing, as we journey together we encourage each other, young and old.

This weekend we celebrate the 800 years since St Francis of Assisi died - this humble servant of the Lord has so much to offer us as we seek a model for our Christian lives, St Francis renounced the material world and set about spreading the Good News to those who were in need - he repaired God's Church by his simple words of hope and charity and his way of living by which he experienced the grace and blessings of God in the world around him. We are all called to walk with Jesus not just at Mass or on Sunday - but every step of our journey through life.

Finally, today I want to again thank all those who participated, attended, organised or watched over the webcam our Week of Hope this past week - you genuinely brought a renewed sense of HOPE to all as we gathered together. The core and lasting message from the week should be that "We walk together, God and His people through the abundant vineyard of grace and blessings". My hope is that all who attended, one or more of our evenings has received a word of grace and blessing and that you were nourished in some way by the experience. St Francis heard the call to fix the Church - we too by our words can bring healing and hope to the world.

With every blessing, Fr Barry Matthews Adm.

Anniversaries & Month's Mind Masses should be left in the Parish Office no later than 12noon on the Thursday of the week before the anniversary is due to be remembered, this includes Saturday Anniversaries. Anniversaries are read out at all Masses on weekday or one Sunday Mass. Months Minds will be remembered at the 12:30pm Mass on Sunday following the Months Mind. We request that you leave your anniversary in as early as possible to avoid disappointment.

Hail, holy Queen, Mother of Mercy!
Hail, our life, our sweetness, and our hope!
To you do we cry, poor banished children of Eve;

Turn, then, most gracious Advocate,
your eyes of mercy toward us;

O clement, O loving, O sweet Virgin Mary.

A Hundred Thousand Welcomes?

Exploring what hospitality for migrant people means in contemporary Ireland

Hospitality in Today's Ireland

Ireland's tradition of hospitality - céad míle fáilte - faces challenges due to rising immigration, which has exposed longstanding societal issues like housing, homelessness, and gaps in social services. These challenges existed before immigration became a prominent issue, but some fearful and angry voices now call for closing borders. However, the Irish people, conscious of our own history of migration and Christian faith, must continue to welcome newcomers. Many immigrants bring valuable skills and talents, while others seek support for a better future.

As Christians, the belief in the sanctity of life and the commandment to 'love your neighbour' calls us to care for everyone, regardless of their background. The parable of the Good Samaritan reminds us that our neighbour includes all, regardless of ethnicity or status. The Irish Catholic Bishops' Conference urges all Christians, and people of goodwill, to embrace this Biblical invitation to welcome the stranger, creating parishes and communities of hospitality where people truly belong. Welcoming others is not only a societal duty but also a Gospel command to love and serve as Christ did.

Reflect: When have you been blessed by hospitality that you received?

Migration: An Irish Reality

Migration has been a central part of Irish history, shaped by events such as war, famine, economic collapse, and now, climate change. During the Great Famine (1845 - 1852), nearly two million people left Ireland, but migration has long been a reality for the Irish, with significant exoduses as recently as the 1950s and 1980s - the legacies of which remain with us today. It is a new experience for Ireland to be a destination for migrants, a clear sign of the country's economic and social progress.

Historically, Irish migrants often faced discrimination abroad. Father Gerry McFlynn, of the Irish Council for Prisoners Overseas office in London, recalls the change since migrating to live in England at the end of the 1970's. The 1980's and 1990's were difficult decades to be Irish there. 'One had the strong sense of being "a suspect community", having to keep one's head down, say little publicly, always conscious of one's accent and background.' He adds that it was not until the Good Friday Agreement of 1998 that attitudes began to change for the better.

The Catholic faith itself is a migrant's faith, spread throughout Ireland by Saint Patrick, an immigrant and former slave. The Irish diaspora played a key role in spreading the faith, with Irish missionaries and communities flourishing globally. Pope Francis, the son of immigrants, constantly highlights the sacredness of the migrant's journey, reminding us that welcoming migrants is akin to welcoming Christ.

Reflect: Have you or your loved ones been migrants? How did that experience feel?

Welcome: The Migrant's Gift

In recent years, Ireland has seen many immigrants seeking a better life, and local parishes, schools, and community organisations have played a key role in integrating them. The Catholic Church in Ireland has become a space where long established communities encounter and befriend newcomers, fostering diversity - which is a gift and a source of renewal.

One example is Irene Nunes, who came from Brazil to Ballyhaunis thirteen years ago. Irene and her family were warmly welcomed by the local parish, where she now serves as a sacristan and member of the Parish Pastoral Council. She speaks of the strong sense of belonging and community that she and other Brazilians have experienced in the parish, exemplified by a celebration where five Brazilian couples were married at the same ceremony in Saint Patrick's Church. This experience of radical hospitality reflects early Christian communities, where cultural and ethnic divisions were overcome through shared faith in Jesus. The Church in Ireland now experiences this same sense of welcome and renewal through the presence of immigrants.

Encounter: Moving from Welcome to Belonging

Irish Catholic Bishops strongly encourage a “culture of encounter” that goes beyond mere tolerance of newcomers. Such a culture fosters authentic participation and integration. Polite tolerance can leave migrants feeling isolated, but true Christian encounter involves mutual enrichment, where established communities and newcomers share and learn from each other. It is noted that the Irish Council of Churches and the Irish Inter-Church Meeting, bodies which facilitate dialogue between all of the Churches across the island, have recently produced resources to help enhance such encounter and belonging. Pope Francis emphasises the need to engage with others deeply, not just seeing but truly listening and connecting with them. This spirit of encounter reflects the early Christian understanding that believers are ‘foreigners and exiles’ in the world, called to form connections beyond borders.

Our Church’s universality ensures that every parish is connected globally. Furthermore, Church teachings affirm the dignity of every person - including that of the migrant - and remind us that every person possesses inalienable rights and deserve respect and welcome.

Reflect: When have you felt truly encountered, listened to, and valued? How did that impact you?

Challenges to Integration

Immigration to Ireland is high at present, though not at the levels previously seen through the peak of the Celtic Tiger era. In the most recent year for which there are statistics (up to April 2024), 149,200 people came to live in Ireland. However, 69,900 people left Ireland in the same period.¹ The figures for Northern Ireland are lower, with the most recent statistics suggesting a net immigration of 2,300 people in 2022.² These numbers contain a great diversity. It includes Irish citizens returning to live here, people on employment visas coming to take up particular roles, EU citizens availing of the freedom of movement, people from Britain who benefit from the Common Travel Area and many others besides. A significant factor in the numbers coming to Ireland in recent years were Ukrainians who are fleeing the Russian invasion of February 2022. Their numbers constitute a net figure of just over 81,000.³ The number of people who come seeking International Protection is a small proportion of the overall number – about 14,000.⁴ According to the European Union statistics body, the number of people found to have been here in Ireland illegally in 2023 was 1,485 people.⁵

One of the reasons why the topic of immigration can be contentious is that differences within the meaning of the term are not always acknowledged. “Immigrant” often means someone who has made a permanent home in a new country. “Migrant” often means someone who is only based in the new country for a period. “Asylum seeker” refers to someone who is claiming protection outside their country of origin, which is different from a “refugee”, who is someone who has had that claim confirmed. It is important to note that the formal definition of refugee does not include anybody displaced within their own country, or who travels abroad to escape poverty or famine.

While these definitions are important from a legal perspective, we should not allow them to obscure what matters most to Christians: regardless of where a person was born or what passport they carry: they are our neighbour.

An example of the challenges to integration is Patrick's story. Patrick was born in Nigeria and grew up in a loving Catholic home before marrying and coming to work in Ireland in 2002. He tells us that adjusting to Irish society was challenging but he and his family gradually integrated 'through a long process of acculturation'. He adds, 'we have four children, all born in Ireland, who identify more as Irish than Nigerian. After my wife's passing, we navigated through difficult times but also enjoyed good moments together. Finding employment was a difficult challenge but I got help and training through State sponsored FÁS courses and I am now in my third and, hopefully, most lasting job.' While Patrick is aware of the cultural differences he has experienced in work, in Church and with neighbours, he concludes that despite all of this, 'coming to Ireland has been a blessing. We have the freedom to practice our faith and we are happy, although we miss Nigeria and find travel there expensive.'

It is common to hear people talk about the costs of immigration. But almost one-in-five workers in the Irish economy are 'non-Irish-nationals'.⁶ Our economy could not function without the people working in the sectors of hospitality, education, healthcare and technology, who have come here from elsewhere. Economists describe our economy as "at full employment" and it is still growing. There is clearly an inescapable need for migration. No one can but doubt that these newcomers have become foundational to the positive operation of our society.

Reflect: How have migrants blessed your life?

Building a Friendly Society

Ireland faces significant challenges, such as homelessness, strained health services, and an education system struggling to meet demands. However, these issues have been on the landscape for some time - they have not been caused by migration.

Migrants can help address these needs, contributing positively to society. It is important to approach immigration policies in a way that serves the common good, which includes both migrants and citizens. We are fortunate to live in a country with a stable democracy and a vibrant civil society, and we encourage all citizens to participate in such political debate to the fullest of their abilities and convictions. Pope Francis urges political leaders to prioritise effective solutions to social and economic exclusion, emphasising "political charity" to overcome individualism. Christians are called to support this vision collectively.

Reflect: How can you encourage constructive debate on the things that really matter in our society?

Caption Pope Francis greets pilgrims in Croke Park, Dublin, during the Holy Father's visit to Ireland for the 9th World Meeting of Families in August 2018.

A Call to Parishes: Community Sponsored Programme

As Irish society changes, the Church is tasked with welcoming and integrating migrants. Pope Francis warns against building "walls in the heart" and encourages a culture of openness, reflecting Jesus' inclusive ministry and his command 'Ephphatha' – be opened! (Mark 7:31-37). Parishes are urged to oppose fear and recognise the image of God (Genesis 1:27) in every migrant, regardless of nationality.

One practical response is the Community Sponsorship Programme, where local communities sponsor and resettle refugee families. This scheme is supported by the Government of Ireland and led by the Irish Red Cross and partners. One example of this is the parish of Clane in Co Kildare, which successfully welcomed a Syrian family in 2019, and it provides a model for how parishes can respond to refugee needs with hospitality and support.⁷

Reflect: How can migrants in your parish help shape the journey from welcome to belonging?

Conclusion

Migration presents many challenges for all involved: immigrants seeking safety and a better future, as well as for those who welcome them, and the governments and communities responsible for providing shelter and support.

As migration to Ireland increases, it brings both difficulties and opportunities for society. While the changes ahead remain uncertain, the teachings of the Gospel provide timeless guidance on addressing these challenges.

Catholic Social Teaching emphasises the dignity of every human being and the common good, offering a foundation for action. The Church sees the “travail of migrants” as a violation of human dignity, and urges us to welcome migrants so as to support the defence of their inalienable rights.⁸

The patron saints of immigrants and refugees, such as Saint Patrick, Saint Frances Xavier Cabrini and Saint Josephine Bakhita, remind us of the Christian call to compassion, love, and service to the marginalised. As we face the ongoing realities of migration, displacement, and human trafficking, we must draw from these sources of faith for guidance.

May we always welcome and advocate for migrants. In doing so, we fulfil our shared role as a “migrant pilgrim people,” continuing the Irish tradition of openness, encounter, and hospitality, and bearing witness to God’s eternal love.

A Welcome for Families with Young Children

One of the things our Parish Pastoral Council has been reflecting on is how we can continue to make our churches places where every family feels welcome and at home. In particular, we want to say something to parents of babies, toddlers and young children:

Please don't worry if your child cries, wriggles, wanders or makes a little noise during Mass! And for all of us, a little patience, understanding and a welcoming smile can make such a difference. Our children are not simply the future of the Church — they are part of the Church today. They are learning how to pray, how to participate and how to find their place within our parish family. So, families, come to Mass. Bring your children. Bring the wriggles. Bring the noise. Bring the joy! There is always a place for you here.

PLEASE RESPECT GRAVEYARDS

We have received several serious concerns about dog fouling in Belleeks Graveyard. This is deeply upsetting and entirely unacceptable.

The graveyard is a sacred place—a place of prayer, remembrance and respect for those who have died.

The signs are clear: dogs are not permitted in the graveyard. Please do not bring dogs onto the grounds, and if you see someone doing so, please remind them respectfully of the rule.

We ask everyone to treat the graves, the bereaved and this sacred place with the dignity and respect they deserve. Thank you for your cooperation.

CEREMONY OF ENROLMENT AND LIGHT

Please keep the children from our four schools in your prayers over the coming weeks and months.

This Saturday, our First Holy Communion children will celebrate their Enrolment Ceremony.

Next Saturday evening, the pupils preparing for Confirmation will celebrate their Ceremony of Light.

We wish them all every blessing as they continue their faith journey.

November Parish List of the Dead

As we approach the month of Holy Souls, we invite you to remember your deceased family members and friends. The Parish List of the Dead and envelopes are now available in each of our parish churches.

Please take a List, carefully write down the names of those you wish to remember, and return it with your Mass Offering before 1st November.

You can drop the envelopes into the collection baskets, to the Sacristy, Parochial House or the parish office.

All those named on these lists will be remembered in the Mass, that will offered up on the First Friday of each month in the coming year.

I would encourage parishioners to join in this Mass, in praying for all our deceased.

May they rest in eternal peace.

"It is a holy and wholesome thought to pray for the dead, that they may be released from their sins."

Spend Time with Jesus

Tuesday Evening Adoration

Could you spend an hour—or even half an hour—with Christ?

Parishioners are warmly invited to spend time before the Blessed Sacrament in the Parish Pastoral Room, Belleeks, every Tuesday evening from 7pm to 9pm.

Jesus awaits us to bless us, guide us, and fill us with His peace and wisdom. Even thirty minutes can make a difference, and your presence is welcome.

Please contact the Parish Office if you would like to take part in this special time of prayer for our parish community.

Allow Christ to be part of your week.
