27th Season of Creation and Equinox

The Season of Creation comes to an end on the 4th Oct, the feast of Francis of Assisi. A few weeks ago, I posted a statement by Pope Leo in conjunction with the Season titled: “They shall beat their swords into ploughshares and their spears into pruning hooks” (Isaiah 2:4)

I conclude with A Prayer for Our Earth composed by Pope Fancis. Followed on that same theme and linked with the wonders of creation, Niamh Ní Argáin [Niamh Horgan] has gifted us with another script honouring the movement of our planet with some of our neighbouring planets, and linked with that the seasons and the customs and traditions arising from the Celtic respect for the movement of those heavenly bodies. To date Niamh has provided us with a script on Féile Bealtaine, Féile Lúnasa, The Solar Eclipse 12th August, the Lunar Eclipse 27th/28th Aug, and this weekend a piece of the Equinox 21st Mean Fómhair.

A Prayer for Our Earth

All-powerful God, you are present in the whole universe
 and in the smallest of your creatures.
 You embrace with your tenderness all that exists.
 Pour out upon us the power of your love,
 that we may protect life and beauty.
 Fill us with peace, that we may live
 as brothers and sisters, harming no one.
 O God of the poor, help us to rescue the abandoned and forgotten of this earth, so precious in your eyes.
 Bring healing to our lives, that we may protect the world and
 not prey on it,

that we may sow beauty, not pollution and destruction.
 Touch the hearts of those who look only for gain
 at the expense of the poor and the earth.
 Teach us to discover the worth of each thing,
 to be filled with awe and contemplation,
 to recognise that we are profoundly united
 with every creature
 as we journey towards your infinite light.
 We thank you for being with us each day.
 Encourage us, we pray, in our struggle for justice, love and peace. Pope Frances, Laudato Si’

Equinox refers to mid-autumn, around the 21st September, when day and night are equal, a brief period of rest and pause, inviting us to stop and draw a breath if we choose to do so.

Strictly speaking, 'equilux' comes first, the time of 'equal light,' when daylight and night-time are almost completely equal. Equinox means equal darkness, which occurs a day or so later, and refers to the moment when the sun crosses the earth's equator. In September, the sun enters Libra, the sign of balance, reminding us especially to consider whether our own lives are in balance and how we wish to move into the next phase of the year.

Dates of the equinox can vary slightly year by year. This slightly bittersweet festival of farewell to summer and facing into winter is observed by many different cultures around the world in different ways. Here in Ireland, it was traditionally a break for the busy farmers harvesting crops before the coming winter. Legends of the 'Púca,' ruining the blackberries before Michaelmas remind us to gather our harvest now and not wait until nature deteriorates in the coming cold. The Greeks remember the story of Persephone's annual descent to Hades, leaving her mother Demeter lonely until spring. Native Americans prepare crops for winter, the Chinese observe a mid-autumn festival and Jews celebrate the weekend holiday of Sukkot, a harvest thanksgiving. Some refer to this festival as Mabon and consider it a powerful time for prayer and meditation.

Equinox is also known as Michaelmas, the feast of Archangel Michael, 'he who is like God', in which courage triumphs over fear and the ferocious dragon who threatens the town is defeated, not slain by brute force, but brought by the power of inner strength. Traditionally and still in some areas, such as Waldorf schools, children perform pageants about St. George's taming of the dragon by drawing on his inner power and strength under the influence of Archangel Michael. This story is not to say that we need to see the same dragon as evil; rather, it symbolises a difficult part of ourselves or our lives that we can overcome if we have faith in God and draw upon our strength and courage. Children are taught to intone the rhyme 'Brave and true/ Will I be/ Each good deed/ Sets me free/ I will fight/ for the right/ I will conquer the wrong.'

We could choose to celebrate Michaelmas primarily by accepting its invitation to stop and draw breath. We could use our labyrinth as a walking meditation to turn our attention inwards for a spell. We could also go for an intentional nature walk through the autumn landscape, and give thanks for the beauty of the natural world, as well as for the blessings in our own lives. We could also consider preparing feasts with our loved ones using seasonal produce such as apples, pumpkins, blackberries and grains.

As we observed during our recent Lunar eclipse, we could take this time to consider our own 'dragons,' or as Carl Jung would see them, our shadow selves, harmful if left unchecked but potentially a powerful source of goodness if we can control it with our own will.

Fr. Michael

Seeing your Life through the Lens of the Gospel

There are two parables here that Matthew has joined together. Looking at the first one:

1. Scripture often speaks of the kingdom of God as a banquet. The image of people being at a meal where everyone is happy and welcome and where all hunger and thirst is satisfied gets across the idea that God loves, accepts and welcomes us and wants us to make that experience available to one another. Think of times in your life when you have had 'banquet' experiences and when you have felt accepted and loved?
2. The host enlists the help of his servants to invite people to the banquet. We are commissioned by the Lord to invite people to the banquet of the kingdom, to the fullness of life – as parents, teachers, friends, etc. What has it been like for you to play a part in leading others to a fuller life?
3. As in the parable last week there is a message about being alert to invitations that offer a fuller life and the danger of losing out if we neglect to respond to such invitations. Perhaps there have been opportunities offered to you that you missed, and now regret. Think also of the blessings you received because you seized the moment and took an opportunity that presented itself.
4. The second parable puts the focus on how we respond to invitations. Some invitations are ones that challenge us to change, to conversion, to put on a 'wedding garment'. What has been your experience of changing in response to an invitation you received? John Byrne osa

Fr. Martin is delighted to announce that the Pastoral Council have set up a Baptismal Team for St. Columba's, Castlegar and St. Peter and Pauls in Coolough. There is now a Baptismal team in each of the Parishes in the East Galway Faith Community. This will mean that parents wishing to have their child baptised will have a brief meeting with the Baptism Team. These meetings have proved very beneficial for the parents and will help to enrich their understanding of the Sacrament of Baptism.

Aifreann: Next Irish Mass in Coolough Church on Thursday, October 22nd, at 7.30 pm.

Mass times: Mervue on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 9.30am.
 Renmore on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 9.30am.

Missa cunctipotens genitor Deus
(plainchant IV)

Anima Christi (Frisina)

Soul of Christ, sanctify me. Body of Christ, save me. Blood of Christ, inebriate me.
Water from the side of Christ, wash me. (...)

Ave verum corpus (Mozart)

Hail, true body, born of the Virgin Mary, who truly suffered, sacrificed on the cross for man; whose pierced side overflowed with water and blood, be for us a foretaste in the test of death.

Mass Theme—Téama Aitrinn

In the parables of Jesus, wedding feasts are mentioned from time to time. The original parable may have ended with the words invite everyone you can find to the wedding. The details of the troop—highly unlikely as an actual part of a wedding invitation (!) - realistically portrays the later destruction of Jerusalem, which Christians looked back upon as punishment precisely for that rejection. The end is difficult for us today on a spiritual level. However, it is meant to provoke conversion in a possibly complacent Church.

Reflection—Machnamh

A Morning Bright

Another day is dawning
As the morning star shines bright
My soul with joy is waking
As I look to Christ my light.

The moments of the day are there
With toil, tears and grime,
And yet I fret not of the day -
I know that Christ is mine.

The moments of this day are his
To do with as he would
I know that he will lead me
To do that which I should.

Prayer for Vocations

O Lord our God, we pray that the Lord of the Harvest may open the hearts of our young people to the possibility of a life in priesthood or religious life.

Grant this through Christ our Lord. Amen.
