Bishop of Limerick Brendan Leahy has called on people across the Diocese of Limerick to work together in their parishes and to 'think Community' for the common good, saying that great things can happen when people unite around a shared purpose. Addressing a recent Diocese of Limerick Annual Assembly, Bishop Leahy said that the importance of working together can be seen in many areas of life and pointed to the success of the Limerick senior hurling team as a powerful local example of what can be achieved through teamwork, commitment and a shared spirit. Working together, he said, is what builds strong, vibrant communities that shelter, encourage and nurture. "You can imagine the Limerick hurling team wouldn't get far if they just saw themselves as 15 individual players," Bishop Leahy said. "What makes the team great is the teamwork and spirit. We know they work on that." Reflecting on the theme of togetherness, the Bishop said that faith is not simply a private matter but one that calls people into community and service of others. He encouraged parish communities to continue strengthening local connections, building welcoming environments and supporting one another in faith and daily life."It's when we act as community we are at our best. Think of how we celebrate together as a people, the joy we get in that. Think also of how we come together to support people at times of need and the support we give in that," he said. "God didn't save us simply as individuals. He saved us as a people, to be the 'People of God'," he said. "For Christians, there is a triangle we need to remember: me, my neighbour and God."
The diocesan gathering brought together clergy, parish volunteers, ministry leaders and people involved in a wide range of parish and diocesan initiatives. The programme highlighted the breadth of activity taking place across the Diocese, with participants encouraged by the scale of engagement and outreach underway in local communities. The National Synodal Assembly taking place today, this Saturday, October 17th. Bishop Leahy described this as a significant milestone for the Irish Synodal Pathway on its five-year journey to date since it started in 2021. The guiding question that has accompanied the Synodal Pathway in Ireland is: "What does God want from the Church in Ireland at this time?".
At the gathering this Saturday, some 300 nominated delegates, including seven from Limerick, will gather to consider and make recommendations on suggested actions arising from the five years of listening and discernment. Following the Assembly, the proposals that are approved will be presented to the bishops of Ireland for their consideration. Bishop Leahy also announced that a Limerick Diocesan Synod will be held on March 13th, 2027. Summing up the spirit of the gathering, Bishop Leahy said that while many people can feel isolated within their own parish, coming together reveals the extensive work and commitment that exists across the Diocese."
When we join up the dots, there is a lot going on," he said.
"We should be thankful for that and find new strength to go forward."

Monaleen Parish Newsletter 18th October 2026

Reflection The Pharisees and Herodians set out to trap Jesus. They hate him and they want to discredit him and get him into trouble. They start out in a sneaky, unctuous, smarmy way by building Jesus up attempting to appeal to human pride: You are an honest man; you are not afraid of anyone; a man's rank means nothing to you.

Then comes their treacherous question: Is it permissible to pay taxes to Caesar or not? Yes or no, what is your opinion?

Before we come to his answer we should look at the background. Jesus and his questioners were living in a country occupied by a hated foreign power; the Romans. They were hated because of the degradation they caused - no one likes being a slave or tenant in one's own country - and in addition to that the Romans were plundering the country principally be extorting exorbitant taxes. We all know well that the tax-collector of the time was especially despised. We should also consider to whom these taxes were being paid. - Tiberius Caesar, who, in his personal life, was utterly depraved and immoral and who reigned by terror, who was a murderer and who, as emperor, claimed to be a god and oppressed and enslaved millions of people.

Now to Jesus' answer. If he had said: don't pay taxes to that evil wretch, he would have fallen foul of the Roman authorities. If he said pay the taxes, he would have been characterized as pro-Roman and would have fallen foul of his own oppressed people. His questioners thought they had him in a no-win bind.

Then of course he gave the masterful answer. "Let me see the money you pay the taxes with. Whose head is this whose name.... Very well, give back to Caesar what belongs to Caesar." Then followed the far more important part: "and to God what belongs to God."

Here Jesus is declaring that obedience to God and reverence for God comes before any other consideration including civil, secular society.

The Catechism has this to say about it: "The citizen is obliged in conscience not to follow the directives of civil authorities when they are contrary to the demands of the moral order, to the fundamental rights of persons or the teachings of the Gospel. Refusing obedience to civil authorities, when their demands are contrary to those of an upright conscience, finds its justification in the distinction between serving God and serving the political community. "Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and to God the things that are God's." "We must obey God rather than men." (Acts 5:29) (CCC 2242)

The Second Vatican Council had this to say: "When citizens are under the oppression of a public authority which oversteps its competence, they should still not refuse to give or to do what is objectively demanded of them by the common good; but it is legitimate for them to defend their own rights and those of their fellow citizens against the abuse of this authority within the limits of the natural law and the Law of the Gospel." (GS 74. 5) We are obliged to be good citizens but when secular society commands, permits and promoted what is gravely morally wrong we have not only the right but the duty to raise our voices in objection because our first loyalty belongs to God.

Right now, missionaries desperately need your help. In many poorer parishes in Africa, Asia, and Latin America missionaries are serving on the front line. They already do so much, walking hand -in-hand with marginalised communities, long before and after any emergency.

You can show missionaries you care by supporting World Mission Sunday.

Your prayers and generosity will change lives.

Rediscovering Catholic Customs

Every generation inherits traditions from the past which shape our Catholic identity. They have been woven into the daily rhythms of life, complimenting the liturgical year and enriching personal piety. October and November are rich months for rediscovering Catholic customs that may have faded from everyday practice.

Examples are: praying to our Guardian Angels as protectors and shepherds; raising our petitions to Mary by praying the Rosary and meditating on its mysteries; praying the Memorare, the Angelus, the Magnificat, timeless Marian prayers which are rich in poetic language and theology. World Mission Sunday- 18th October 2026

World Mission Sunday is the Holy Father's annual worldwide celebration of prayer, solidarity and support for the Church's missionary life. It invites Catholics everywhere to participate in the Church's global mission, through prayer and financial support for mission dioceses most in need. The day reminds Catholics that the Church is missionary by nature. Mission is not limited to priests, religious, sisters, or missionaries serving abroad. Every baptised person shares responsibility for proclaiming the Gospel and supporting the growth of the Church throughout the world. The annual collection is important because 1,130 dioceses in mission territories cannot sustain themselves financially. Yet the day is fundamentally spiritual before it is financial. Recent popes have repeatedly emphasised that mission begins with prayer, witness and communion. There are many vocations in mission dioceses. But when they are ordained, many mission bishops really struggle to support their priests.

Prayer for the sick:
Let us continue to pray for those who are ill at this time, those who are preparing for and awaiting results of tests and those in hospital. Lord Jesus, you are the true friend of all those who suffer anguish and pain in spirit, mind or body. Please share with them now the gift of your consoling love.

Act of Spiritual Communion

My Jesus,
I believe that you are present in the most Blessed Sacrament.
I love you above all things,
and I desire to receive you into my soul.
Since I cannot at this moment receive you sacramentally, come at least spiritually into my heart.
I embrace you as if you were already there and unite myself wholly to you.
Never permit me to be separated from you.
Amen.

World Mission Sunday
World Mission Sunday is the Holy Father's annual appeal for spiritual and financial support so that the life-giving work of overseas mission and missionaries can continue. It always falls on the second last Sunday in October, and like the Good Friday collection for the Holy Land and Peter's Pence, it is one of three yearly universal Church collections. World Mission Sunday collections take place in every single parish where the Church is present. This includes not only Ireland and Europe, but also in poorer parishes in developing countries. It is a moment of universal solidarity when each member of the Church family, regardless of location or background, play their part in supporting each other. Right now, missionaries desperately need your help. In many poorer parishes in Africa, Asia, and Latin America missionaries are serving on the front line. They already do so much, walking hand-in-hand with marginalised communities, long before and after any emergency. You can show missionaries you care by supporting World Mission Sunday. Your prayers and generosity will change lives. Visit: missio.ie for donations.

We will hold a collection for World Mission next weekend, 24th & 25th October.
