The Parish Office is closed until Monday November 2.

SAINT OF THE WEEK

Poor Jude must be worn out in heaven. As the patron saint of hopeless cases, his help is sought by countless people. Why has Jude been given the care of difficult situations?
Some think it may be because of confusion between his name and that of Judas Iscariot, the traitor. As a result, people may have thought there was no point in praying to him: it was hopeless. All we know is that Jude was an apostle and martyr, honoured with St Simon each year on 28 October.

Point to Ponder:*
The Catholic faith is built on belonging to a shared family of faith rather than walking alone.

Update from Victoria

I had a text message recently from Fr Dean in Victoria, to tell me that he was exhausted. Apparently some initiatives in the cathedral parish (where I spent my sabbatical) succeeded beyond the staff's wildest dreams.
In September, they had a volunteers' fair, to get more helpers on board. Cards were left out one week, then the next Sunday's homily encouraged people to sign up. As a result, 75 people volunteered. These had to be vetted and steered to ministries that matched their talents. As a result, the cathedral now has five volunteer gardeners, extra flower arrangers, and numerous stewards and ushers. There's a lot of work in organising these.
Last Easter Vigil, 15 adults were baptised. But 21 have signed up for baptism in 2027, and 19 adults seek Confirmation. All 40 meet each week and learn about the Catholc faith. More work for Fr Dean: even reporting this sounds exhausting.
Fr Dean also reported that the youngest of his five sons has mental health issues that have brought him to hospital and caused Fr Dean and his wife Linda endless worry. If you have a spare prayer, please remember them, and their son, as will I.
