It is with great sadness that we announce the death of Fr. Aidan O'Kane, C.P. following a fall in Medjugorje. May his good soul rest in peace.

Fr. Aidan O’Kane, C.P., R.I.P.

Fr. Aidan O’Kane C.P., died on Monday, 28th September, following a serious accident that occurred while he was on pilgrimage in Medjugorje, a place he loved dearly. This unexpected news has deeply shocked and saddened us all, and it has been difficult to process what has happened over the last few days.

Fr. Seamus Aidan O’Kane was born on 13th January 1962 and hailed from Carnlough, Co. Antrim, but spent most of his life working in London, living in Kilburn. He entered the Passionist Novitiate at Holy Cross, Ardoyne, Belfast, in September 2015, made his First Profession of Vows the following year, and then moved to Ealing, London, to complete his studies. In 2018-2019, Fr Aidan became a member of the community here at Mount Argus and undertook studies in Clinical Pastoral Education at the Mater Hospital.

He made his Final Profession of Vows in September 2019, at Mount Argus, and was ordained to the Diaconate here in November of the same year. Throughout the COVID pandemic, he ministered here as a Deacon before his subsequent Ordination to the priesthood at Holy Cross Ardoyne in September 2020. After his ordination, he was appointed Vicar to Tobar Mhuire, Crossgar, and then as Vice Novice Master to our students, Cian and Martin Dominic, while also managing the Houben Centre in Ardoyne. In October 2025, following the Provincial Chapter, he returned to Mount Argus as Parish Priest, Vicar, and Student Director.

Fr. Aidan’s passing will deeply affect many, including the community here at Mount Argus and the parish community.

We also extend our sympathies and prayers to Fr. Aidan’s family during this time of mourning.

Funeral Arrangements for Fr. Aidan:

First of all, thank you very much for all the messages of goodwill phoned and given in to the monastery. Your continued prayerful support is very much appreciated.

At time of going to press – midday Saturday – we are still unclear as to the details of the funeral of Fr. Aidan. His remains will be repatriated on Tuesday, and we expect there will be a mass here, probably on Thursday. Where his remains will be laid to rest is still awaiting decision, but at present it looks like it will possibly be in Ardoyne, in Belfast. We will do our best to keep you updated, especially through announcements at masses over the next few days.

Brief reflection on Gospel:

An interesting – and key – aspect of our gospel passage this Sunday – the story of the landlord who equipped his vineyard with every mod-con and leased it out to a number of tenants, who refused subsequently to pay their rent – is that at no stage does Jesus mention any particular tenant. He refers to them as ‘they’ and they refer to themselves as ‘us’. This is not accidental – it is our gospels once again driving home Jesus’ message that following Him is not about simply being an individual on one’s own personal faith-journey, but becoming part of a people, taking corporate responsibility for one another. That caring for and about one another should be clearly seen in His followers. Being a Parish is about praying and working together – using the talents and gifts of all and taking responsibility together for making our parish a truly fruitful vineyard of the Lord. And we do that best, when we combine the rich treasure-house of talents that make up our parish, and work together to make, not just our parish, but our world, a better place.

Bereaved Parents’ Support Evening:

Anam Cara, the organisation that supports bereaved parents, will hold its monthly Parent Support Evening on Monday 12th October at 7.30pm in the Maldron Hotel, Whitestown Way, Tallaght.

This event is free and open to all bereaved parents regardless of the age the child died, the circumstances of their death, or how recent their death was. You do not need to register in advance.

We commend to your prayers:

We pray for the sick and housebound of our Parish –; we remember those who have died recently: Fr. Aidan O’Kane C.P.; and those whose anniversaries occur at this time: Rosaleen & Des Clegg, Al Griffin, John Lysaght, Tom Boyle (Month’s mind), Ian Hazley, Hazel Dowling, Bernie Winters, Anna Dowd, Margaret Moloney, Sr. Ann Thomas, L.S.A .
