New Pilgrim Path Website of the Week, Sunday, September 27th: Pope Leo's Encyclical on AI revisited - As headlines swirl with rapid technological acceleration and apocalyptic forecasts, Magnifica Humanitas demands a second, closer look. Just five months since its publication last May, Pope Leo’s first encyclical - on artificial intelligence (AI) – has proven extraordinarily far-seeing. His document bypassed the speculative hype of long-term AI futures to address the exact structural, psychological, and geopolitical stress points that have unfolded over the past five months. New Pilgrim Path has come across a comprehensive and very accessible overview of the encyclical from the website of Ascension Press, a highly regarded American publisher and digital media company specializing in Catholic faith formation material. Access it here: www.newpilgrimpath.ie.

The Beatification of Archbishop Fulton J. Sheen took place in Missouri on Thursday last. Decades ago, his television show “Life Is Worth Living” brought millions of families together in their living rooms, offering timeless wisdom, humour, and a powerful reminder of God’s love. Today, Blessed Fulton Sheen remains a brilliant guide for our homes. He always taught that the family is the "first church," and he famously promised to spend his heaven interceding for mums, dads, and children. Let’s celebrate his legacy today by bringing his most famous habit into our own homes—making time for prayer, peace, and looking out for one another.
