Pope's Message for Day for Life - Caring for the Older Person

The focus of the Day for Life this year is older persons. The COVID pandemic highlighted the desperate plight of many older people, especially those in care homes and those struggling with long-term chronic conditions such as dementia. They carried the highest burden which included prolonged isolation, the distress for families being unable to visit, delayed medical interventions and tragic, isolated, deaths followed by shortened, minimal, funeral rites. Many family members and friends continue to bear the wound of deep grief which hurts and is still in need of healing.

There are many challenges which we face; the way in which we provide care for older persons, its cost and the means of payment, the shortage of staff in care homes, the time and energy needed to help older people feel valued and wanted. Many feel they have become a burden or can feel treated as a burden, a 'bed-blocker', or a nuisance because they move more slowly, struggle with more physical challenges and live a different rhythm of life. They often feel vulnerable and worry, when they hear talk about and even concrete proposals for the legalisation of assisted suicide and euthanasia. We share their concerns. In better valuing older persons, we need to find new ways of building bridges by our actions.

Pope Francis has recently offered a very different and more positive perspective. In his Catechesis on Old Age, he writes, 'The alliance between generations, which restores all ages of life to the human, is our lost gift and we have to get it back. It must be found, in this throwaway culture and in the culture of productivity.' He invites us to listen to the dreams of older women and men and to learn from their wisdom (Joel 2:28). Older persons have a different rhythm to life from which we can learn. He continues, 'The arrogance of the time on the clock must be converted into the beauty of the rhythms of life.'

We invite people to think again about the value and worth of older persons in families and in society, and to make practical choices to build bridges between the generations. We call for people and parishes to devote quality time, energy and creativity in caring for the older persons in our communities.

We invite engagement in political debate on providing adequately resourced care of older persons so that no-one feels like a burden in our society.

We challenge our politicians and healthcare system to provide accessible palliative care for all the dying.

We encourage people to learn from a closer accompaniment of the elderly that there is a real richness in the journey through old age, which offers a deeper meaning and a new rhythm to the whole of life; something which can be celebrated and lived with hope in eternal life.

Saint Joachim and Saint Anne, pray for us.

Twenty-Eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time 9th October Prayers of the Faithful

In our Gospel today Jesus highlights the gratitude of the leper who was healed and the ingratitude of the other nine lepers. We pray that we will be grateful to God for those who minister to us as priests, deacons and religious, and that we will encourage and support those who are discerning a vocation to serve as a priest, deacon or religious to respond to the Lord's call.

During the month of October we reflect and zone in on the Missionary of the Church. We thank all Irish Missionaries who brought the good news of the Gospel to several foreign countries. Today the role is reversed. Ireland is now missionary territory. We welcome all who have come our country and who are witnessing the Faith by their active participation in our liturgies and community.

Twenty-eighth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Gospel: Luke 17:11–19 Thank you

What a difference an attitude of gratitude makes! In today's gospel, the life of the man who turns back to thank Jesus is utterly transformed. The other nine receive the same gift of healing, but they do not acknowledge the gift or the giver. In thanking Jesus, the Samaritan man enters into a relationship with him; he becomes a disciple. During the early days of the COVID-19 pandemic, there was an outpouring of gratitude for healthcare workers. People stood outside their homes to clap for the nurses, doctors and first responders who were putting their lives on the line. There were campaigns for better pay and conditions for them, and appeals to the public to play their part in keeping these heroes safe. But over time the clapping stopped and the media spotlight moved on, though of course the selfless work continued. Gratitude makes us aware that we are part of something bigger than ourselves by being connected to others and the world. Pope Francis has spoken of the importance of saying 'Thank you' in family life, and he suggests that we should give thanks before and after meals: 'That moment of blessing, however brief, reminds us of our dependence on God for life; it strengthens our feeling of gratitude for the gifts of creation; it acknowledges those who by their labour provide us with these goods; and it reaffirms our solidarity with those in greatest need'. We slip easily into the habit of turning to prayer only when we need something.

But what about after the storm has passed? Jesus asks the question, 'The other nine, where are they?' Perhaps they simply got on with their lives and, over time, let the memory fade. All ten were healed yet, because of his gratitude, one man had a fuller experience, and his life was all the richer.

"Gratitude unlocks the fullness of life. It turns what we have into enough, and more. It turns denial into acceptance, chaos to order, confusion to clarity. It can turn a meal into a feast, a house into a home, a stranger into a friend. – Melody Beattie⁷

Go Deeper

Gratitude is an important part of faith. Make a list of all the blessings you are grateful for in your life. Write a letter to someone expressing gratitude for all they mean to you. Take a few moments to remember all those who care for the sick, whether at home or in healthcare settings. Give thanks for all they do, and ask God to bless them in their work.

Seeing your life through the Lens of the Gospel

† The cure of the lepers is not just a physical cure, it also brought the people healed back from exclusion into the community. Perhaps you have experienced the movement from exclusion to inclusion. What was it like for you to be accepted once again when you had felt excluded?

† Who were the Jesus people for you who brought about this change? For whom have been able to do this, perhaps by healing a rift with a friend, or by listening to the opinion of someone you had dismissed out of hand, or by opening the door in some other way to another?

† Some people work hard at breaking down barriers in society, seeking inclusion for those who find themselves labelled as lepers by society or by a section of society. Where have you seen this happening? Who has been doing this kind of work? Where is the good news in such action?

† When we do good for another, we may not do it for the thanks we hope to get, but it can hurt when no gratitude is shown. Sometimes it is those closest to us who can take us for granted. What helps you to cope in such circumstances?

† How have you experienced the positive effects of thanks given and received?

Feast of St Francis of Assisi (Season of Creation 6)

Everything is connected

The Feast of St Francis of Assisi is celebrated each year on 4 October. It marks the end of the Season of Creation, and invites us to celebrate the patron saint of ecology and to learn from him. St Francis was intimately connected with nature. His famous prayer, the 'Canticle of the Sun', refers to 'Brother Sun, Sister Moon, Brother Wind, Sister Water'.⁷ St Francis was a mystic who, 'faithful to Scripture, invites us to see nature as a magnificent book in which God speaks to us and grants us a glimpse of his infinite beauty and goodness' (Laudato Si' §12). Aware of just how deeply interconnected everything is, St Francis had a deep grasp of what we today call integral ecology. Just as Jesus spent much time in nature, contemplating the sparrows (Lk 12:6) and the tiniest of seeds (Lk 17:5), so St Francis also lived in full harmony with creation. St Francis showed us that care for creation is inseparable from concern for each other, justice for the poor and our own interior peace. Seeing that everything is connected, and living out this vision joyfully and with an open heart, St Francis was – and is – deeply loved. He takes us to the heart of what it is to be human and invites us to a profound interior conversion: 'Just as happens when we fall in love with someone, whenever St Francis would gaze at the sun, the moon or the smallest of animals, he burst into song, drawing all other creatures into his praise' (Laudato Si'. We are called into this awareness so that we repair our broken relationship with the natural world and with each other. We are called to turn away from destruction and, feeling intimately connected to all that exists, care more deeply for our common home.

The risen One is mysteriously holding [creatures] to himself and directing them towards fullness as their end. The very flowers of the field and the birds which his human eyes contemplated and admired are now imbued with his radiant presence. – Pope Francis.

Go Deeper

To mark the feast of St Francis, many parishes host a blessing of animals. Pets are such an important part of our lives. Today is an opportunity to give thanks to God for pets and celebrate the gift of companionship they offer us. It's an opportunity for us to remember pets that have died.

The Deep End by Triona Doherty & Jane Mellett

Year C
Luke 17:15-19

Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, praising God with a loud voice. He prostrated himself at Jesus' feet and thanked him. And he was a Samaritan. Then Jesus asked, "Were not ten made clean? But the other nine, where are they? Was none of them found to return and give praise to God except this foreigner?" Then he said to him, Get up and go on your way; your faith has made you well.

Reflection: Gratitude is an important quality in life. Our parents have taught us to be grateful persons. We have been reminded not to take people in our lives for granted. When we step back and reflect on life, we realise we have much to be grateful for: our family, friends, health, a good education, a job, daily food, a home and many other unexpected blessings. Life is good when we approach with a deep sense of gratitude.

Ingratitude is a destructive force that distorts life, undermines relationships, and poisons community life. When our lives become too busy and disordered, we have difficulty being grateful. We live through distorted lens of selfishness and greed. We are blinded to the beauty and goodness of human nature. We become self-inflated, arrogant and controlling. We take people for granted. We feel entitled to certain things and special privileges. We are unable to show love, care and compassion to others.

The Gospel reshapes the way we see, think, and live in the world. The Gospels teaches that everything is a gift from God. Our posture and response to life must be one of constant praise and gratitude. Our faith is the graced recognition of Jesus as the true source and foundation of life, happiness, health and peace.

Ponder: What am I grateful for?

Prayer: Lord, I am grateful for your healing presence. Help me recognise your presence in my life with constant praise and gratitude.

Practice: With a grateful heart I will show respect to all people.

The Place of Worship

The people who form the liturgical assembly, the baptised faithful, are a 'kingly and priestly people'. In baptism they receive a character which qualifies them for the priestly task of worship. Essentially this worship consists of the living out of a life pleasing to God. But the priestly attitude underlying such a life will in turn seek a ritual expression in the worship of the liturgy, the official worship of the Church.

PRAYER FOR OUR PETS (Feast of St Francis of Assisi)

In your infinite wisdom, Lord God, when You created the Universe You blessed us with living creatures.
We especially thank You for giving us our pets who are our friends and who bring us so much joy in life. Their presence very often helps us get through trying times. Bless my pet. May my pet continue giving me joy and remind me of Your power. May we realise that as our pets trust us to take care of them, so we should trust You to take care of us, and in taking care of them we share in Your love for all Your creatures. Amen

THE CORNER STONE (Matthew 21:33-43)

A common image for Jesus is the garden or the vineyard, with comments on wasteland and fruitful land. In this story he looks at stones and points out that a rejected stone, if looked at again, could become the cornerstone of a building. He is referring to prophets who were rejected, and to himself. He would be, through his weakness and death, the essential stone of the new temple, the energy through death of the new community.

We live in a throwaway culture. Much of what could be used again is dumped to destroy the earth and the sea. We waste a lot of the daily bread of the people. Jesus asks us always to look again, to see the value of what we may throw aside, especially in our treatment of each other.

Everyone has a value in the eyes of God. Pope Francis noted: 'When adolescents feel unloved, they may turn to violence, hatred or delinquent behaviour. There is no such thing as bad children or evil adolescents, he said, but there are unhappy people.' (June 2107). He is asserting that with love and a community of acceptance, everyone has a place and has something to offer, like every stone is valuable to a new building, especially some we may first throw away.

SEEING YOUR LIFE THROUGH THE LENS OF THE GOSPEL (MATTHEW 21:33-43)

The target audience of this parable are the Jewish chief priests and elders, portrayed here as rejecting Jesus and his teaching and, as a consequence, losing out on what God was offering them. It is a story of opportunity for life presented and rejected,
and they lose out in the process.
How important have you found it to recognise and accept opportunities for development, and new life when these were presented to you?

The parable is also a cautionary tale about the destructive effects of greed – doing violence to the rights of others which eventually destroys the greedy themselves.
What attitude towards possessions helped you to be at peace with yourself and with others?

The vineyard of the Lord is an image for God's people. As we look at the vineyard we have been given, we can ask ourselves 'are we good tenants?' Recall times when you have been a good tenant and reached out caringly for those around you.

the themes of reconciliation, peacemaking.

Being Christian is not the result of an ethical choice or a lofty idea, but the encounter with an event, a person, which gives life a new horizon and a decisive direction.'
