
22nd Sunday in Ordinary Time

Welcome Back

After the summer break, it is good to be back with our weekly reflection and the Gospel this Sunday is a great place to restart.

Last week we heard Peter's great confession: "You are the Christ." This week, only moments later in the same conversation, the same Peter gets it badly wrong. Jesus speaks of the cross, and Peter takes him aside to talk him out of it. "Get behind me, Satan," Jesus replies. Peter, the rock, has become a stumbling block!

There is great comfort in that. Peter is not a baddie here; he is a man who loves Jesus and cannot bear the thought of him suffering. His mistake is one we all make: wanting God on our terms, wanting faith without cost, wanting the crown without the cross.

Jesus does not reject Peter. He simply tells him to get back where a disciple belongs: behind the Master, following, not leading.

Jeremiah knew the same struggle. In the first reading he complains that God has seduced him, that being a prophet has brought him nothing but insult and derision. He decides to say no more and then finds a fire burning in his heart that he cannot hold in. Faith is like that. It costs, and yet we cannot walk away from it, because it is life itself.

"Anyone who loses his life for my sake will find it." As a new school and parish year begins, that is the question the Gospel puts to each of us: where am I spending my life? On things that will pass, or on the One who lasts?

Welcome back and every blessing as we continue our journeys. May we find life by giving it away for God.

Fr Sean
