Matthew 21:28–32 The Father Is Still Calling

In the parable of the two sons, Jesus reminds us that God is not looking for impressive words but for hearts willing to change. The first son says “no” to his father, but later changes his mind and goes to work in the vineyard. The second says the right thing but does nothing.

There is great hope here. The first son gets it wrong before he gets it right. Our failures need not have the final word. Repentance means turning again towards the Father and responding to his invitation.

Self-condemnation says, “I failed again; look what kind of person I am.” Repentance says, “I said no, but the Father is still calling me. I can get up and go.”

God is less interested in yesterday’s failure than in the direction we are walking today. The question is simply: Father, what does my “yes” to you look like today
