DIVINE MERCY CHAPLET

After 10am Mass

“A man had two sons. He went and said to the first, “My boy, you go and work in the vineyard today.” He answered, “I will not go,” but afterwards thought better of it and went. The man then went and said the same thing to the second who answered, “Certainly, sir,” but did not go. Which of the two did the father’s will?”
 (Matthew 21:28-31)

This parable has an uncomfortable directness for us. The second son — the one who says "Certainly, sir" — is not an atheist or an indifferent secularist. He is the person who attends Mass every Sunday, knows the responses, perhaps serves on the parish council, and yet has kept one corner of his life deliberately untouched by the Gospel: an unreconciled relationship, a business practice he knows is unjust, a habitual sin he has never seriously resolved to abandon. The parable calls the listener to honest self-examination before God: is my faith a matter of words and appearances, or has it actually reshaped my choices? In a culture saturated with performative religiosity — social media piety, virtue signalling, even spiritual aesthetics — Jesus' question cuts through every layer of presentation to the point that matters: ‘did you go?’ Equally, the first son offers genuine hope to those who feel they have said "no" to God for years — through long stretches of lapsed practice, moral failure, or outright rejection of faith. The parable makes clear that the Father still calls, that the vineyard still needs workers, and that a repentance that actually moves the feet is worth more in God's sight than a lifetime of polished words that never translate into action.

800th ANNIVERSARY OF THE TRANSITUS OF SAINT FRANCIS OF ASSISI

Saint Francis of Assisi died on the evening of 3rd October 1226, and, ever since, Franciscans worldwide have observed this day by recalling the last moments of his life. It is told that, as death approached, one of his brothers asked him what kind of death he would prefer, quick and unexpected or prolonged and painful. St. Francis answered: “Brother, I want whatever death God wants for me.”

What faith, what love there is in that answer! It reveals St. Francis' total surrender to the will of the “most high, all-powerful, all good Lord.” It echoes the words of Jesus in the Garden of Gethsemane, “Father, not my will, but yours be done,” and on the cross, “Father, into your hands I commend my spirit.”

In his ‘Canticle of the Creatures’, Francis praises God through His creatures – even death. “(Laudato Si’ ...) Praised be you, my Lord, through our Sister, Bodily Death, from whom no one living can escape. Woe to those who die in mortal sin! Blessed are those whom she will find in Your most holy will, for the second death will do them no harm! Praise and bless my Lord, and give Him thanks, and serve Him humbly, but grandly!”
