Dear Friends,

“The way you think is not God’s way but man’s way.” The words of Jesus in today’s Gospel are stark, but they also speak a truth that is as relevant to our world today as it was when they were first spoken. Jesus speaks to every generation, and these words challenge us to look honestly at the values and priorities that shape our lives. We live in an increasingly secularised world, one which can place great emphasis on material success, possessions, comfort and personal fulfilment. And, if we are honest, it is very easy for all of us to become caught up in those things from time to time.

So perhaps the question for us today is simply: How does God think? Each of us might answer that question differently, but Scripture gives us some important insights. We know that God is just, yet infinitely merciful to those who seek His forgiveness. We know that He is compassionate and that He never abandons us. We believe that God has a plan for each of our lives, a plan which ultimately leads us towards the greatest blessing of all: eternal happiness with Him.

God has also given each of us the precious gift of free will. But free will, like every gift and every power, carries with it a responsibility. We are called to use our freedom wisely and to make choices that reflect not simply what the world tells us is important, but what God asks of us.

So perhaps today we might ask ourselves some honest questions: Do I seek God’s mercy and forgiveness? Do I try to follow His ways in the decisions I make? Do my priorities reflect the Gospel? Am I preparing my heart for eternity, or am I becoming too focused on the things of this world?

Last week, I set myself—and all of us as a community—a simple challenge: that we would try to bring a little more goodness and kindness into our world through small acts and words of kindness. I have been doing reasonably well with that challenge so far, and I have come to realise that perhaps it is a challenge worth continuing. So, for another week, I invite you to join me. Look for an opportunity each day to be kind, to encourage someone, to forgive, to help, or simply to make someone’s day a little brighter. They may seem like small things, but perhaps that is precisely the point. They are small ways in which we can begin to think less like the world and more like God—and allow His goodness to be seen through us.

“The way you think is not God’s way but man’s way.” May our thoughts, our choices and our lives increasingly reflect the mind and heart of Christ.

*With every blessing,
Fr Barry Matthews Adm.*

A Student's Prayer for a New School Year

Lord Jesus, I ask for Your help as I begin this new school year.

Allow me to experience Your presence in the many blessings You put before me.

Open my eyes to the new challenges and exciting opportunities that this new school year brings.

Open my heart and mind to new friends and new teachers.

Give me a generous spirit to be enthusiastic with my studies and courage to accept new opportunities.
Help me to be attentive to my teachers and let me experience
Your presence in my new friends.

Jesus, inspire me to do my best this year!
Amen.

Prayer for Today

Loving God, help me to understand that the one thing you want from me is my presence. Help me to realise that my presence is the one gift I can give and that it is often the only gift that matters. Help me to let go of stress, worry, hurt, pain and grudges. All I need is to be more aware of Your presence in my life today and always.
Amen.
